

CERTIFICATE OF RECEPTION

Name

was received into the fellowship of the Anglican Communion

on 20

at

by me,

presented by

Drawing its core teaching from the Bible, the Anglican Communion upholds the belief of the early church summarized in the Creeds. In its ministry of bishops, priests and deacons and in its emphasis on the sacraments of Holy Baptism and Holy Communion, instituted by Christ, it preserves the ancient structure and practice of the church, while seeking to fulfill God's will in each generation.

As members of Christ's church we seek to share this responsibility by:

- regularly attending public worship
- participating in the practice of prayer and Bible reading
- using our gifts in service to God's reign of peace and justice
- boldly witnessing to our faith in Christ by word and example
- serving those who are poor, outcast or powerless
- offering time and money, according to our means, for the work of the church

CERTIFICATE OF RECEPTION

Name

was received into the fellowship of the Anglican Communion

on 20

at

by me,

presented by

Drawing its core teaching from the Bible, the Anglican Communion upholds the belief of the early church summarized in the Creeds. In its ministry of bishops, priests and deacons and in its emphasis on the sacraments of Holy Baptism and Holy Communion, instituted by Christ, it preserves the ancient structure and practice of the church, while seeking to fulfill God's will in each generation.

As members of Christ's church we seek to share this responsibility by:

- regularly attending public worship
- participating in the practice of prayer and Bible reading
- using our gifts in service to God's reign of peace and justice
- boldly witnessing to our faith in Christ by word and example
- serving those who are poor, outcast or powerless
- offering time and money, according to our means, for the work of the church